2nd & 3rd November 2018

EFFECTIVE, PROGRESSIVE AND PRACTICAL ABA WITH DR JOHN MCEACHIN

ABA is the most researched and scientifically proven intervention for young people with autism. The implementation of the technique varies greatly between ABA professionals in the UK and globally.

This training provides an opportunity for participants to understand in more detail the Autism Partnership intervention model and to have an opportunity to experience the model first hand under the guidance of Dr. John McEachin.

Participants will learn:

- The Autism Partnership method of behavioural intervention
- The essential learning-to-learn skills
- To identify learning to learn skills/deficits
- To break learning to learn skills down ready for teaching
- To identify most appropriate prompts
- To use reinforcement to target the process of learning
- And to systematically build back towards the target skill

The Autism Partnership method emphasises a flexible and child friendly approach that starts with essential learning-how-to-learn skills and promoting social connectedness. Our many years of research and, importantly, hands on work with individuals has led to a highly progressive training model which teaches therapists to assess moment by moment and to make clinical decisions based on these assessments.
